

Environmental Policy

We are committed to paying our particular attention to the protection of the environment in partnership with our interested parties and to continuously improving it based on compliance with all binding obligations as well as our environmental performance. To achieve this, we want to:

- avoid environmental impact as far as possible. If this is not possible, we want to reduce air, soil and water pollution, noise pollution, energy and resource consumption as well as waste accumulation.
- increase environmental awareness by training measures,
- have an open exchange with our interested parties to inform them about the environmental impacts of our company.
- plan emergency procedures to avert danger, and to test regularly so that emergency situations are prevented, or their effects are minimised,
- monitor and evaluate the impacts of our current and future activities on our near surroundings, i.e., neighbourhood and environment,
- assess the environmental impacts of new products and production processes over the entire life cycle,
- commit our contracting partners, who work on our premises, to apply our environmental, fire safety and occupational safety standards,
- establish processes to regularly review our environmental policy, environmental objectives, and adherence of management principles.

Environmental protection is an essential management task. The superiors fulfil a decisive role model function. At the same time, we require all employees to act responsibly and in an environmentally sound manner.

Pfaffenhausen, 1 December 2023

Bernd Schweinberger
president

Hagen Weber
Geschäftsführung